

Twelve months have rolled by since our last Christmas greeting
A year full of change as we evaluate meanings
Climbing back from '08 with its dramatic decline
Horizon's footing is better, we are buffing our shine

Seems the world had gotten itself in a mess
With the greedy consumption of things to excess
But it couldn't go on; the rug had to be yanked
We've all learned a lesson, we've been firmly spanked

We were forced to slow down, the market demanded
We've come to realize it was a gift we'd been handed
We took some time, caught our breath, thought some things through
And once again take great pride in all the things that we do

As we walk through the warehouse and admire our wood
We know in our hearts that the quality's good
Wood with figure or crotches are on our web store
And containers of boules are shipped to places offshore

To stay closely in contact we give Twitter a tweet
And response to our newsletter has been especially sweet
So sign up online, put your name with the throng
Of others who listen to the Horizon saw's song.

We are singing it loud, we hope you can hear
Horizon stands proud as we close out the year
And we think of our friends, and send THANKS to each one
For helping this year be a positive one.

MERRY CHRISTMAS
