

The season is here, it slipped in on its toes
Seems we've just turned around and it's under our nose
And we're thankful, of course, as we are each December
'Cause we stop, take some time, reflect and remember

We look back on a year that stands out on its own
As one when the challenges have certainly grown
The economy's pressure has wound things so tight
We work extra hard to keep our goals within sight

It's true business is tough, we're all feeling the crunch
But we're not in it alone, the whole globe's taken a punch
So we position ourselves for a forward progression
When the world moves ahead and climbs out of recession

We've simplified Christmas, the trimmings and treats
No calendars, parties, treasures or sweets
And the money we save as we shave our excess
We'll donate to those who are not as well blessed

Please share in the joy: by diverting our gifts
We can aid groups that are needy, or going adrift
Contributions, donations and free-giving of help
Are far more important than a caloric-filled shelf

In a strange sort of way these hard times are okay
'Cause they make us more thankful for what's good in each day
As we count up our blessings it's abundantly clear
That YOU friends are the best, whether you're far or you're near

So, the folks at HORIZON, send our very best wishes
For a pleasant New Year and a very nice Christmas!
