

We're looking again at a year almost past.
Weird how some things seem slow but time zips by so fast.
So here's our holiday greeting along with our thanks and some news.
A mix of seriousness, humor and a few shallow clues,
delivered from someone growing old, avoiding sensible shoes.

The year was an odd one, some complaints & laments.
Luckily, things seem to work if you accept a life with some dents.
There were mysteries and surprises, a few got under my skin ?
But the final tally reflects there were gains and some grins.

The progress we made I won't list or describe, but the best news of all;
two more joined the Terbovich tribe.
It's not just the company, but the family is growing in stride.
Opps, Am I going off track? It's so easy to do.
Did I mention - avoiding at all cost only sensible shoes

Well, this year's about over, so go out, have a time. It's said ya can't be a criminal if ya don't do a crime.
But carefully consider how to be good holiday folk,
a blend of a saint and a sinner is the most interesting bloke.
My point is, it's usually OK to be who you are, but years ago I was taught; "Fun's fun just don't carry it too far". (*Daniel M. Terbovich 1915- 1963)

Enjoy the holiday season, the smells and the sights. Think, how doing a good deed just has to be right.
Use sense with your senses- how do things make you feel?
Like the sight of calf muscles in a pair of high heels.
Take a chance , test the ice, objectively listen to differing views.
Realize, it doesn't make you a genius 'cause you're wearing sensible shoes.

So pull that cork, cook that goose, it's time to be with friends and family.
You probably have gifts under a bright Christmas tree.
But no matter what are your spirits, or what you believe, remember; It's about giving not getting; helping those who're in need.
Although we have big smiles, the World has those with the blues.
There's folks in the cold needing a coat along with some shoes.

Trust there is sincerity when Horizon messages are written and read.
Huh, Wait! An interesting thought just popped in my head.
I'll bet even Santa would smile if those high heels were red.
